

AmeriCorps Project Ayuda Safeguards Policy

To ensure member safety, AmeriCorps Project Ayuda members or participants may not:

- be alone at a service site without supervision;
- participate in projects or undertake service activities that pose a significant safety risk;
- conduct service at a private residence or any unauthorized site; or
- provide transportation for youth.

Important Reminders:

- Let your service site know if you have any health or physical issues of which they should be aware.
- Wear clothing that is appropriate to your volunteer environment and to the work that you are doing.
- Any injury, no matter how small, should be reported at once to the service site and your site supervisor.

A member should immediately contact his/her site supervisor and the Project Ayuda program coordinator if he/she feels that his/her safety is at risk during service hours.
